

Exercise 3

1. If a woman with a habit of 6 days in Haydh saw one day of bleeding after which it stopped for 14 days and then she saw 1 more day of blood how would you work out the ruling for her?

1st day of bleeding and 5 days of non-bleedings would be of haydh. As ghusul wasn't made cos previously 1st

2. A girl age 10 saw bleeding for the first time and it continued for 12 days. What is the ruling for her?

10 days will be counted as haydh and the rest will be of Istihadha.

on 11th day she would make ghusul and pray salah.

3. A woman aged 57 had a discharge of blood which lasted 1 day. The colour of it was deep red.

What will this be classed as?

☐ Haydh

☒ Istihadha

☐ Nifaas

4. What is the minimum age for Haydh?

☒ 9 years

☐ 7 years

☐ 10 years

5. If a girl has a flow of blood before the age of nine,

What will this be classed as?

☐ Haydh

☒ Istihadha

☐ Nifaas

6. If your Haydh habit was 8 days and then one month it continued on Day 9 and Day 10 and then went on to Day 11 before it stopped what would you do on Day 9 regarding Salaah?

Ghusul wasn't made on day nine, as I didn't know that if bleeding would stop after 10 days or not, so on day 11 I'd pray Qadha salah of day nine after making ghusul.

7. In the above situation what would you do on Day 11 regarding Salaah?

would make ghusul and offer salah, if bleeding continues I'd have to make wudu for each salah separately.

8. In the above situation what will the bleeding of Day 11 be called?

Istihadha.

9. If in one month, after your usual 8 days Haydh you only had 12 days of purity and then started bleeding on Day 13 what rulings would apply to you?

Apart from 8 days, all the rest of days will be regarded as Istihadha and would pray and fast.

10. In the same situation as above, would the same rule apply or a different one if you had 14 days and 23 hours of purity?

Same rule.

day was considered as istihadha, but now as it's established that apart from first 6 days of haydh the rest 10 days will be of istihadha, so salah offered without ghusul will be repeated now by making qadha, if in ramadan then qaza will be made for fasts.
